Title: Changes in Life

This year was no different than others

A little happiness and a little laughter

Some people feel like prisoners

Some take risks for our happily ever after.

Nevertheless, life goes on

Dangers lurk outside and we hope that its gone

Maybe next year will be a little different

A new chapter that is better than the current.

Legend and stories will be told

Studies and theories will unfold

It will be written in the world's history

It will no longer be for scientists a mystery

How did it happen and how did it go?

All will reveal and clearly show.

It is just a way of showing nature's anger

But we should never meddle with her fiery temper

After all this is the game of life

It can be useful and dangerous as a knife.
